My friend. We lost touch over the years with distance and our lives but I will never forget you from the first time I met you. From elementary school to high school, we were friends. I will never forget those days. Baseball, video games and cards. I will never forget you. Go to Heaven my friend. Your work here is done.

“ Too many memories to be specific... At school, in town, at Walker's, etc.... But always, always, when he was around he tried to make me feel better. If I was sad or worried about something, he tried so hard to make me laugh. Such a tender hearted young man....he and Jason coined a nickname for me and one for Ashlee. I was "Kellraiser" and Ashlee was "Ash-hole"... They knew it drove us crazy and we didn't like it so they said it all the time... But we loved them and they knew that. He is loved by so many...and will be missed.

“ On the way home from being at Justin's house one night (we hadn't been dating long), I saw a cruiser parked by the road and two people in the middle of the road with flashlights. I had my windows down and waved as I drove by, being courteous and slowing down some and giving them a little room. Within a quarter mile of pulling onto 645 from tomahawk, blue lights were on my tail. I pulled over, and before I could get my window down, Chad was at my door with his gun pulled. When he so that it was me, he kind of chuckled and lowered the gun, then asked me what in the world I was doing our thinking my not stopping at a road checkpoint. I explained that I thought he was helping someone find something they'd lost - I didn't know it was a checkpoint. He then doubled over in laughter and told me to go home before he called my dad. He was the first to pull me over!
