*Porky and I became great friends when I worked night shift at a local gas station/convenient store, near where he lived. He would come by to check on me, to make sure I was safe and just to keep me from being alone. I will always remember him for his laughter and gentle kind spirit. I especially remember one time, a young man was verbally abusing his girlfriend in the parking lot. Porky intervened and made him stop. The couple left, but the man returned shortly thereafter and continued to threaten and taunt Porky to fight him. I called police, but to anyone familiar with our area, you know the police were not about to respond... I begged him to not go outside, but he did. I remember him telling me, "It's ok, he needs to hit someone. Let it be me. Maybe he won't hit his girlfriend again today! I'll be right back, kid!" As we all know, Porky didn't have good balance, so he was knocked down by the bully (unknown to me or I would be calling him out), but Porky got back up, knocked off the dust and came back in with a bloody lip. I rewarded him with his favorite Mountain Dew and within minutes we laughing again! I loved him and I respected his bravery that day!! Our friendship grew over the years and Porky spent MANY weekends at my home with me and my family. I have sooo many memories I could share :). I'm so sad and heart-broken that I had not seen him in so long. I miss his friendship and his compassion for others.
I can still hear him saying, "See ya kid!"*

Porky touched more people than he even realized. The one thing I can say is people when u have loved ones in nursing homes or even sick at home, please take the time and just pop in and say hello. There are so many folks who are so lonely. We had purchased a tablet for Porky to keep in touch on facebook. It was to be for his 50th birthday..today. Just wish we could have gotten it to him sooner. But I,have a feeling he is in heaven now with his legs and is free of the illness he carried from the age of 15. Rest in peace little brother and know I loved you with all my heart.

“ I grew up with Ricky and I can't think of anything but good to say about him. This has just broken my heart. I remember going to his house as a young girl. Lots of fun times at Kermit High School and on the streets of Kermit. I wish I had known he was sick. He was such a gentle person and always had a smile on his face.
